HE accompanying portraits of the Rector's and People's Churchwardens for the current year will remind our Readers of the responsibility and important work which the laity of the Church are called upon to undertake, and which they willingly and efficiently discharge Mr. James Twinem and Mr. William Best have, during the past year, given unsparingly of their time and attention to the interests of the Parish of Seagoe, and their year of office, which expires at Easter. has been marked by many important events in our local Church life. The Rectory Purchase Bazaar last December, the building of the New Class Room in Seagoe School (largely due to the enterprise of the Rector's Churchwarden), the beautifying of the Chancel by the erection of the Canon Blacker Memorial, and the efficient ventilation of the Church, have all been accomplished since the Churchwardens assumed office last Easter. Seagoe Parish is highly privileged in having so many of its stalwart laymen deeply interested in the progress of Christian work in our midst. The photograph, besides providing a lifelike portrait of the Churchwardens, gives an interesting glimpse into the architectural beauty of the Church It was taken by the Rector from the Vestry steps.

Prize Distributions.

Last month was marked by a long series of Sunday School Prize Distributions in various centres. The gatherings began with a fine muster of adults and young people in Hacknahay, on Friday, Feb. 6th. The Rector presided. An interesting feature of the Programme was the excellent singing of the Day School Pupils, accompanied on the Harmonium by the Principal of the School, Miss Chambers. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to all who had helped and especially to Mr. and Miss Calvert for once again kindly entertaining the Sunday Schools.

The next Distribution was at Drumgor on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15th. This year owing to Mrs. MacMullan's illness there was no festive gathering. On Monday, Feb. 16th, a great crowd gathered in Seagoe School, and enjoyed a splendid programme arranged by Mr. Boyle, the Superintendent, and Mr. S. R Chambers. The action songs were very novel and amusing. Seagoe Sunday School carried off the Blue Ribbon of all the Sunday Schools by winning three silver medals for an unbroken attendance at Church and Sunday School throughout the year. The winners were May Best and Isabella Best. daughters of our People's Churchwarden, and Mary Jane Atkinson, grand-daughter of Dynes Atkinson, Sexton of Seagoe. These three pupils attended twice each Sunday at Church and twice each Sunday at Sunday School and every Wednesday during the week-night service during the year. Mrs. McKeown of Edenderry kindly gave the Tea for the Festival. Edenderry had its Prize-giving on Thursday, Feb. 19th. The large Hall was quite filled. and a great many prizes were distributed. Mrs. Stevenson kindly handed the prizes to the winners.

Carne as usual distinguished itself. The programme was unusually good and we were glad to notice many new performers. Mrs. Grimshaw of Peacefield very kindly distributed the prizes. The Superintendent Mr. David Murray had arranged everything very efficiently.

Levaghery, last but not least, held its annual gathering on Monday, Feb. 23rd. The Rector presided, and the prizes were handed to the successful children by Mrs. McDowell. Mr. Jas. Sh ppard deserves great credit for arranging an excellent Programme. ## The Parish "At Home."

Seagoe Parish enjoyed an "At Home" in the fine enlarged Parochial Schools, on Thursday, February 12th. The new Room was used for the first time, but even with this extra space there was not sufficient room for the many who assembled. Messrs. Birrell and Fawcett's Concert Party from Belfast provided a novel and amusing Programme. An interval of 15 minutes for mutual conversation "with the person who sat next you" was largely availed of on the advice of the Chairman. There was a most sociable spirit present, and a word of thanks is due to the ladies who sent in such a large number of splendid cakes. There never were such cakes before. The Parish "At Home" of 1914 will be long remembered.

The Iron Entrance Gates at Seagoe New Church, 1820.—The iron gates which still do duty at Seagoe Church were erected in 1821. They were purchased with money obtained from the Sale of the Roof Timbers of the Old Church. At a Vestry held on Thursday the 26th day of October 1820 it was resolved That the sum of £28 18s 1d shall be expended in erecting a proper Iron Gate at the entrance of the New Church Yard, levelling the Yard and preparing the same for planting. Notes on Old Seagoe Church.—The Blacker Pew in Old Seagoe Church was a very conspicuous object. It was situated on the south side of the Church, between the Pulpit and the Chancel. It was of the old square or box shape, and was surmounted by a canopy from which curtains were hung, Its position in the Old Church is marked by the marble memorial to the Rev. George Blacker in the ruined walls in the old graveyard.

The Font, which finds a place in the present Church, occupied in the Old Church a place under or at the foot of the stairs leading to the gallery, on the left of the entrance door.

It is said that many of the stones and monuments from Seagoe Old Church Graveyard are built into the walls of Seagoe Cottage, now occupied by Mr. T. H. Wilson.

Before the high western gable and belfry fell it was heavily covered with masses of ivy which formed a favourite resting place for a colony of Owls whose twittering at night broke the weird silence of the old graveyard.

For many years a venerable Pear tree stood in the graveyard and was said to have been planted on the boundary line between the townlands of Upper and Lower Seagoe.

The Roof of Old Seagee Church had a very steep pitch, and must have been supported by massive timbers. The building was very narrow for its length being nearly three times as long as it was broad. The outside measurements of the walls give the length as 66ft. and the width as 27 feet. The east and west walls are  $3\frac{1}{2}$ ft. thick, and the north and south 3ft. thick.
