JUBILATE DEO
(Psalm 100)

O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands: serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.

Be ye sure the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

O go your way into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and speak good of his Name.

For the Lord is gracious, his mercy is everlasting: and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

From the Order for Morning Prayer, The Book of Common Prayer (Church of Ireland)

Alphabetical Index of Entries in the Registers	75-148

INTRODUCTION

Having now completed over twenty projects in Co Roscommon, I am continuing my efforts to produce a 'family tree' of the Anglican parishes in the county in order to understand how they had been progressively gathered into larger groups since the late nineteenth century. Using the standard reference works, I was unable to find or deduce a satisfactory answer for a number of parishes and decided to investigate further by a detailed study of the surviving registers. This work was interrupted by the recent pandemic and its after-effects, so my intention of completing a county-wide transcription and index of parish register entries continues.

Over two years ago I was contacted by Mr Philip Holland of Seagoe Parish in the Diocese of Dromore, and the driving force behind Seagoe Archives, a Heritage Lottery Fund-supported project to digitise and transcribe primarily the Seagoe Parish Magazine, and secondly the earliest surviving parish register. He suggested that I could usefully produce my own transcription of the register as an ARP project. This document is the result of our efforts.

The following points should be borne in mind when using the transcript:

Dates All dates have been standardised as follows; day in numbers, month in three letters (abbreviated as necessary), year. Although the change from the Julian Calendar (Old Style - OS) to the Gregorian Calendar (New Style - NS) did not take place in Great Britain and Ireland until 1752, dual year numbering started to appear in this register in the late 1680s for dates between 1 January (New Year NS) and 25 March (New Year OS), but some later entries were incorrectly attributed to the NS when it was not yet in force.

- All dates in the register transcript are as originally presented.
- All dates in the index as presented as dual year.

Legibility and Spelling Indecipherable or uncertain details, whether due to illegible handwriting or faded ink, are marked by a ?

Missing Information A dash '-' is used to indicate that the expected information (name, date etc) is absent from the entry.

Illiteracy Those who made a mark instead of signing the registers are indicated by an 'x' after their name.

Additional Information Marginal notes and comments from the registers appear in the text or as footnotes. Comments by the Revd Abraham Dawson, Rector of Seagoe 1879-1905 are shown in [square brackets] - see also below. Comments by the present compiler are in {curly brackets}.

Chronological Discrepancies Obvious errors are shown in bold but not corrected.

Index The index lists in alphabetical order all persons who were recorded as baptised, married and buried at Seagoe over the periods covered by this earliest register. Where circumstantial evidence points to entries for more than one event for the same person, they have been included on the same line in the index. In the absence of any such evidence they have been listed separately.

Transcriber's Observations The first Seagoe parish register is one of the earliest to survive in Ireland. It is unformatted, it is not completed in date order or in discrete sections, with some pages covering baptisms and/or marriages and/or burials. Some entries, indeed whole pages of entries, are repeated with no identifiable logic (shown in highlight), and the repeated entry may vary from the original. It contains a bewildering variety of information, and there are many blank pages. In addition to baptisms, marriages and burials, it includes vestry minutes, receipts and payments, and memoranda on a variety of topics that fell within the responsibility of a late seventeenth-/early eighteenth-century vestry.

In the late nineteenth century, the then Rector of Seagoe, the Revd Canon Abraham Dawson, attempted to make sense of what the document contained, especially in regard to variations in surnames, and he annotated many entries accordingly. His observations are shown in [square brackets] in this transcript and index.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE PARISH AND CHURCH

Seagoe (sometimes Segoe or Sego) is an ancient parish in the north east of the county, of nearly 11,000 acres, south of Lough Neagh and NNE of Portadown, with the River Bann forming the western boundary for over 4 miles. The earliest stone church is believed to have been built by settlers who came over from England with the Earl of Essex during the reign of Queen Elizabeth I. It had a difficult existence over the next two hundred years. It was shown as roofless on a map dated 1609 and subsequently repaired. It was again destroyed in the disturbances of 1641 and rebuilt on the same site in 1669. A porch was added in 1705 and a transept in 1755. The drawing below is from the draft parish history:

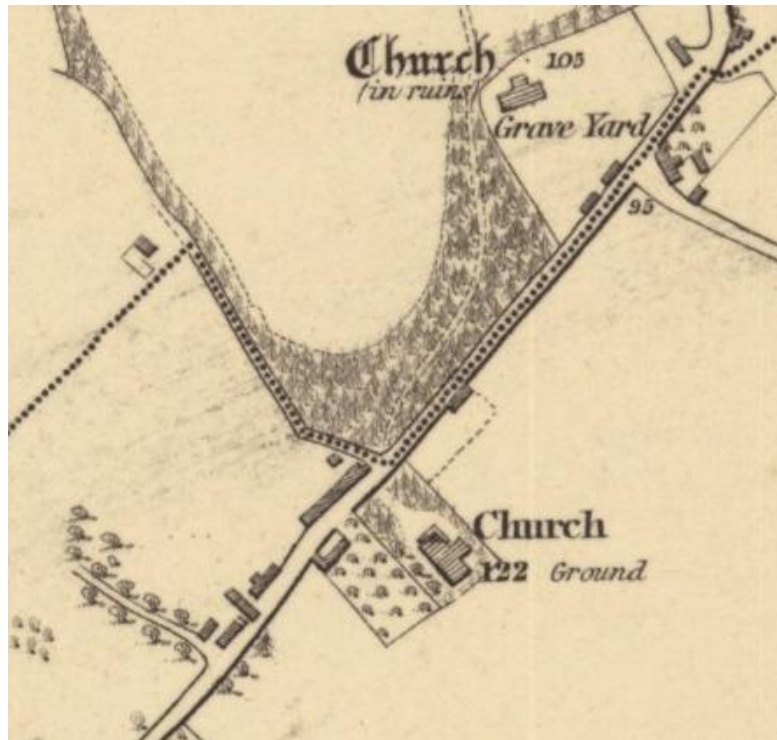

The ruins of this church may still be seen in the old churchyard, more of which below.

The present church was built on a new site through the inspiration and fund-raising efforts of the Revd George Blacker, who died in 1811. The first stone was laid on 1 June 1814 and the church was consecrated on 28 June 1816. It was larger than the previous building, 70' by 30', and had a tower at the west end, but no chancel. It had a flat ceiling and a gallery over part of the nave, which was subsequently extended. This date stone, originally located above the east window, is mounted on one of the walls of the tower:

Both the old and new churches appear on the Ordnance Survey First Edition Six Inch map - Armagh Sheet 10 (surveyed 1834-1835, engraved 1835, printed 1836):

© National Library of Scotland

Writing at almost exactly the same time, Lewis (1837) described the new church as '... a large handsome edifice in the early English style, with a square tower, built at an entire cost of £2200, of which £1000 was a loan from the late Board of First Fruits ; the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have recently granted £319 for its repair : the interior is fitted up in a very superior manner'.

A decade later Fullerton (1846) wrote in slightly less detail: 'The church is situated about a mile north-north-east of Portadown, and was built in 1812, partly by means of a loan of £923 from the late Board of First Fruits. Sittings, 1,000, attendance, from 120 to 300'. A bell was installed in the tower in 1860 and the box pews were replaced by benches in 1862.

During Canon Dawson's incumbency a chancel and south aisle were added; the foundation stone was laid on 11 April 1890 and the church was reopened on 7 August 1891. The work undertaken was reported in extensive detail in the Irish Ecclesiastical Gazette of Friday 31 July 1891 (pages 626-627):

SEAGOE CHURCH, DIOCESE OF DROMORE

The works connected with the renovation of Seagoe Church, from the plans of the architect, Mr Thomas Drew RHA, have occupied the contractors, Messrs Collen Bros of Portadown, for the past eighteen months, and are now very nearly completed. They embrace almost the entire reconstruction of the church, with exception of the west wall and the tower, and the addition of a chancel and south aisle. A new roof, also, has been provided for the nave ; and the old vestry at the centre of the north side of the nave has been converted into a spacious porch, with lofty oak doors, and adorned externally with cut-stone dressings and buttresses. The new vestry forms part of the chancel buildings. The old windows, with wooden frames, have been replaced by handsome stone traceries, in keeping with those in the new portions, and all designed harmoniously in the perpendicular Gothic style which distinguishes the whole building. The windows have all been filled in, according to the designs of the architect, with cathedral-tinted glass, supplied by Messrs Forest and Co, Liverpool, except the east window of the aisle, in which is inserted stained glass representing our Lord consoling Mary and Martha (John xi 23, 32) furnished by Mr G Moore M'Dowell, of London, and erected by the Atkinson family in memory of their parents, the late Mr Woolsey Atkinson and Mrs Charlotte Atkinson, of Eden Villa, Portadown. The roofs of the nave, aisle, and chancel are very beautiful, and, as the architect writes, "of a design not usual in other churches of the diocese, a four-centered arched framing springing from hammer-beams, and all richly moulded and peculiarly massive, and bearing the character of the 15th century English roofs." They are all of pitch-pine, left without staining or varnish. In the nave the ends of the hammer-beams are adorned with carved figures. The new aisle - 38 feet long and 21 feet wide, and giving 200 additional seats - takes the place of the huge gallery which disfigured even the old inornate nave, and has now been removed. The aisle opens into the nave with three lofty-pointed arches. The chancel similarly opens, but with an arch of loftier proportions; and like arches adorn the north and south sides of the chancel opening to the organ chamber and vestry, and to a lateral aisle or chantry, respectively. Over the chancel arch, on the nave side, is the illuminated text, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come." The chancel itself, 25 feet long, by 18 feet wide, is a memorial of the late Stewart Blacker Esq DL, of Carrickblacker, and has been built at the sole cost of his sister, the Baroness Von Stieglitz, who has also defrayed two-thirds of the expense of the roof of the nave. She has besides made most generous provision for the fittings and adornment of the chancel, including a superb cloth of crimson Utrecht velvet, with hand-wrought embroideries from Messrs Cox and Co, London, who also supplied the arch text. At her expense likewise, benches of solid oak have been placed in the chancel for the choir, with the prayer-desk and reader's desk, both the latter being handsomely carved. The chancel and all the passages of the church have been laid in Peek's first quality Staffordshire tiles, and the floor of the sanctuary in exquisite Mosaic tiling, specially designed by Mr Drew, and supplied by Messrs Craven, Dunhill and Co, Jackfield Works, Shropshire. The pulpit

- the gift of a generous friend - is of oak, set upon a stone base. It is richly carved, and, as the figures on the hammer-beams, is from the workshop of Mr A P Sharp, Dublin. The capitals of the columns have been carved with much beauty by Messrs C W Harrison and Sons, sculptors, Dublin. All the seats in the church are open. Those in the new aisle are pitch pine, left unstained and unvarnished. The old seats in the nave, after very extensive and careful repair, have been replaced, and have been stained and varnished. The font, which is supposed to be nearly 300 years old, has been stripped of the paint with which it had been coated in modern times, and has been placed upon a large stone base in the nave near the entrance from the new porch. The walls of the church have all been finished in duresco, of a terra cotta colour, which harmonises effectively with the white Bath stone which is freely used in the columns, arches, dressing of windows, and all interior work. The traceries of the windows and all the external work are wrought in Dumfries red sand-stone, from the Annan quarries. The lamps in the chancel, vestry, and porch, all of wrought iron and brass, are from the house of Messrs J W Singer & Sons, Frome ; who also supplied the brass communion rail, and standards of wrought iron gilt, after the design of the architect. The standard lamps in the nave and aisle have been furnished by Messrs Richard Patterson & Co, Belfast. The heating of the church is effected by the system of Mr John Grundy, Tyldesley Works, near Manchester, who has erected a double furnace in the heating chamber beneath the vestry, with suitable vents in the floors of the chancel, nave, and aisle. The Messrs Collen Brothers have very faithfully carried out Mr Drew's plans, and have spared no pains to make the building in all its parts worthy of their deserved reputation for careful workmanship. To the genius of the eminent architect the Church of Ireland is indebted, as in so many other instances, for a House of God remarkable for its beauty and seemly adaptation for Divine Worship, in the place of a structure unfitting and wholly devoid of any semblance of architectural grace. It has been arranged to have the re-opening service on Friday afternoon, 7th August next, when the chancel and aisle will be consecrated by the Lord Bishop of Down and Connor and Dromore.

The following month, the consecration of the new parts of the church was reported in the Irish Ecclesiastical Gazette of Friday 21 August 1891 (page 691):

SEAGOE CHURCH, DIOCESE OF DROMORE

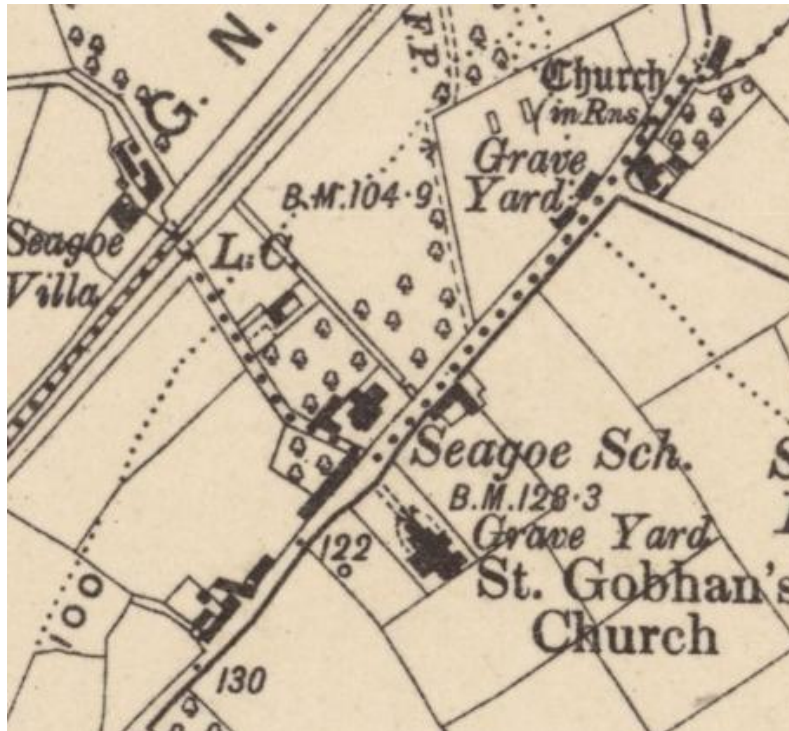

On Friday, the 7th instant, Seagoe parish church was re-opened for public worship after having been extensively removed and enlarged (the particulars of which appeared in a previous issue of GAZETTE) when the ceremony of consecration of the chancel and south aisle was performed by the Lord Bishop of Down and Connor and Dromore. The special service was held at three o'clock, when the sacred building was so crowded with worshippers that numbers had to be seated in the aisles. It may not be out of place to again mention that the chancel is a memorial of the late Stewart Blacker DL, of Carrickblacker, and which has been erected at the sole cost of his sister the Baroness Von Stieglitz, and the south aisle by subscriptions received from the Baroness, as also parishioners and other friends, and grants from the Lord Beresford fund and the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge, London. The renovations were carried out from plans of Thomas Drew Esq RHA, and at an outlay of £3000. The works have occupied the contractors, Messrs Collen Brother, of Dublin and Portadown, for eighteen months. The result has been a building of remarkable grace and beauty. On arriving at the west entrance the Lord Bishop, who was accompanied by one of his chaplains, the Very Rev the Dean of Connor, who carried the pastoral staff, was met by the Rector, the Rev Abraham Dawson MA, Messrs James Atkinson and George Calvert, Churchwardens, and a number of parishioners who presented the petition praying him to consecrate the chancel and south aisle. The petition having been read by the Rev Me Dawson, the Lord Bishop, accompanied by a large number of clergy, proceeded up the aisle repeating the 24th Psalm. The Lord Bishop having said the consecration prayers, the act or deed of consecration was read by Mr Robert Coburn, pro-registrar, and the same having been signed by his lordship, was ordered to be enrolled and preserved in the registry - the church being dedicated by the name of St Gobhan. The evening service was then proceeded with ...

This recently taken photograph of the east end of the church shows the chancel and the new south aisle:

The ground plan of the greatly expanded church may be seen on this subsequent edition of the Ordnance Survey Six Inch map - Armagh Sheet 10 (revised 1905, published 1908):

On Disestablishment (1870) the churchyard surrounding the first (ruined) church was transferred to the District Council and is now called Seagoe Cemetery. The remaining ruins of the old church, fenced off by Craigavon Borough Council on public safety grounds, may be seen in this recent photograph of the cemetery:

The Old Burial Ground to the south-west of the present church was then opened, with the first burial taking place in 1874. It was extended to the south-east in 1914, and this part is known as the New Burial Ground. The gates and surrounding wall were erected in February 1933 and both sections of the burial ground were consecrated in March 1934. The cemetery may be seen on this later edition of the Ordnance Survey Six Inch map - Armagh Sheet 10 (revised 1953-1955, published 1959):

A new car park was laid out in 1971 and a new school, to replace the old one of 1859, was opened next to the church in 1975. In 2010 a new parish centre, connected to the church, was completed. Part of it may be glimpsed in the photograph of the east end on page ix.

The following parishes were created or augmented out of Seagoe at various times:

Ardmore in 1766: the ten townlands of Ardmore, Ballynery, Derryadd, Derrycor, Derryinver, Derryloiste, Derrymacash, Derrytagh North, Derrytagh South and Derrytrasna (about 6000 acres), with a new church at Derryadd built in 1785.

Knocknamuckley in 1838: the eight townlands of Ballydonaghy, Ballygargan, Ballyaghty, Crossmacahilly, Drumgaske, Knocknamuckley, Lisnaminty and Moyraverty, with a new church at Ballygargan built in 1853 and enlarged in 1912.

Shankill in 1878: the following ten townlands were transferred to the existing parish - Aghacommon, Annaloist, Ballynamoney, Boconnell, Drumnakelly, Kinnego, Knockramer, Silverwood, Taunaghmore West and Turmoyra.

Craigavon in 1967: a large part of Burnside and the townlands of Clonmeen Enniskeen, Drumcor, Clanrolla and Knockmena, as well as portions of Knocknamuckley and Shankill Parishes.
